Life in the Age of Coronavirus The case curve flattens as sheltering in place grinds on; university, hospital hit hard by changing conditions; people and businesses try to overcome lack of physical proximity; crime morphs; many await government assistance; meanwhile, go outside at 8 p.m. and howl in support of frontline workers!

'Waves' of relief funding foreseen

Daniel Mintz
Mad River Union

HUMBOLDT – North Coast Congressman Jared Huffman has told Humboldt County's Board of Supervisors that federal relief funding in response to the coronavirus crisis is quickly evaporating but more help is coming.

Through a live video feed, Huffman was at an April 6 special meeting of the supervisors to explain how federal government is covering people's backs in a phase of severe economic slowdown and intense epidemic response work.

Huffman said the $2 trillion federal CARES Act spending bill seeks to cover a myriad of impacts to individuals, busi-

'Our measures are having an impact'

Mad River Union

HUMBOLDT – In a pandemic, exponential growth is expected, so recent testing in Humboldt County reveals a positive trend. There were zero positive test for COVID-19 from Wednesday, April 8 through Saturday, April 11.

Dr. Teresa Frankovich

Humboldt County Health Officer Dr. Teresa Frankovich said, "Other areas are seeing this slowing or pause in apparent transmission, and I am optimistic that our measures are having an impact. As we use this time to enhance preparedness, we are also looking at how we move forward through this pandemic."

However, Frankovich cautioned that COVID-19 is still present and limiting the pace of transmission is essential. "It is imperative that spread happens gradually so that the health care system is never overwhelmed and unable to provide quality care for everyone," she said. "Meanwhile, researchers are working hard on developing effective treatment which can also change the trajectory of this disease. I am deeply grateful to all Humboldt residents who are abiding by shelter-in-place orders and following recommendations that are keeping us all safe."

Warning from county

As the pandemic spread through the world, the death toll mounted and the economy cratered, Humboldters enjoyed sunshine and the beauty of the coastline. Parking lots were full on Scenic Drive as beachgoers strolled the surf line last week. This raised concerns about social distancing and prompted the County of Humboldt to issue a warning.

"The County of Humboldt has been monitoring local parks and beach access areas for compliance with the Shelter-In-Place Order. At this time, county

Compliance up, crime down

ARCATA – As society muddles through the Coronavirus revolution redefining how we live, the dreadful disease has taken a toll on the economy, the social schedule and so many more previously routine aspects of society – including crime.

As an unintended consequence of the societal shutdown, and with exceptions, lawbreaking has dialed back.

Since March 19 – the date that mandatory shelter-in-place orders took hold – calls for Arcata Police Department (APD) service have declined across a range of categories.

"There's still crime," reported Police Chief Brian Ahearn. But overall calls for service are markedly down.

Specific declines:

- Assault and battery: - 33 percent
- Theft: – 60 percent
- Unwanted subjects: – 21 percent
- Traffic/parking: – 70 percent
- Disturbances: – 34 percent
- Juvenile crime: – 75 percent
- Encampments: – 62 percent
- 911 calls: – 55 percent

- Drunk in public: – 53 percent
- Alarm calls: – 50 percent

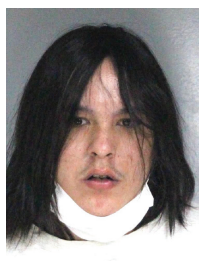

One category of calls for service is up, Ahearn said. That's complaints of restraining order and child custody violations. One reason is that the latter are often schedule-based, and with daily routines disrupted, so are patterns of compliance.

McKINLEYVILLE – On Tuesday, April 7 at about 3:05 p.m., Humboldt County Sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the Hammond Trail in the area of Hiller and School roads in McKinleyville for an assault that had just occurred.

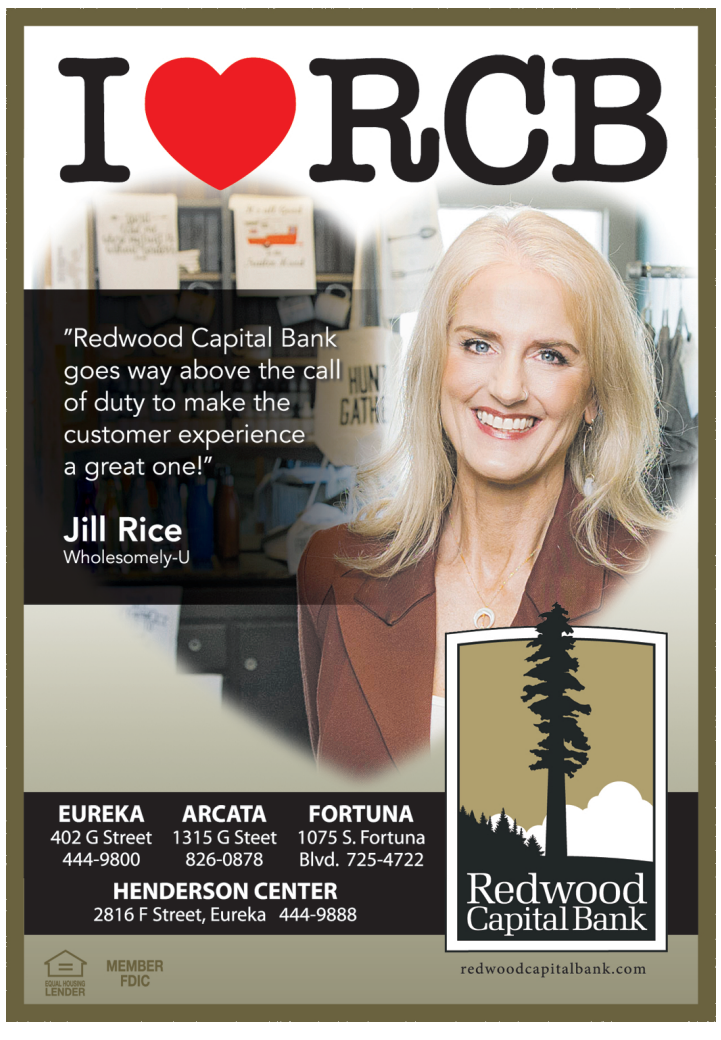

Kyle Cole Berger

Deputies arrived on scene and located a teenage male victim injured on the trail. The victim was transported to the hospital in stable condition.

Investigation revealed that the victim had been walking on the trail with family members when an unknown male suspect, later identified as 19-year-old Kyle Cole

HSU, CR face massive deficits, uncertain future

College of the Redwoods & Humboldt State University

HUMBOLDT – College of the Redwoods and Humboldt State University are both facing immense budget challenges due to COVID-19, according to early projections being shared April 7 at a meeting of CR's Board of Trustees and later at a meeting of HSU's University Senate.

Neither institution expects to dodge the severe budget reductions facing colleges and universities nationwide.

CR was already facing a $1.3 million budget reduction due to declines in state funding. Now the college is bracing for more state cuts as well as a shortfall from dormitory vacancies and a decline in food services.

Options being considered include incentives for early retirement, leaving vacant positions unfilled, continuing to make necessary adjustments to operations in non-academic areas that are considered inefficient, and otherwise cutting back on personnel spending.

HSU was similarly in the midst of planning for a serious budget reduction prior to the coronavirus. Now, instead of a $5.4 million gap, the University is projecting a $20 million shortfall over two years, primarily due to expected enrollment declines because of COVID-19.

Many options are being looked at, including combinations of a hiring chill, spending freeze, operational changes, incentives for retirements, travel reductions, and more. The CFO is actively having discussions with each division to determine pathways to accomplish these reductions, and presentations are planned to share information with members of the campus community.

At CR, officials say enrollment is difficult to predict, but will likely decline if there is additional loss of face-to-face classes.

At HSU, which has large numbers of students from throughout the state and country, expectations are currently for an overall 20 percent decline in fall enrollment, including an estimated 30 percent decline in new freshmen.

All of these projections could change dramatically. Economists are struggling to predict how the economy will fare in the next year. And within higher education, enrollment experts from across the country are having difficulty projecting how many students to expect in the next academic year. None of them have confronted a situation like the current one.

What is clear is that higher education is among the areas most highly affected by the response to the pandemic. Similar to airlines, retail, and hospitality, it has the sort of frequent interaction among people that physical distancing guidelines are preventing.

Presidents at both CR and HSU say that difficult choices are ahead, with big changes needing to be made quickly. They also stress they are confident about the future. The two – CR President Keith Flamer and HSU President Tom Jackson – say the strong partnership the two schools have built over the last year will be a great help.

President Keith Flamer said, "Clearly, the COVID-19 pandemic and the resulting economic downturn will be challenging for our local businesses and higher education institutions. We have an established collaborative constituency based budgeting process that will help us make thoughtful and thorough decisions with the primary objectives of supporting student success and keeping CR accessible. The depth of our investment in this work is a direct reflection of our excitement around our future and the importance of deliberately and carefully building a strong foundation that will enable us to achieve our mission and vision set by the Board of Trustees. Over the next few years, we will be laser focused on keeping our academic programs attractive and useful to students as our economy bounces back from this challenging time. We will be working even more closely with our partners at HSU and throughout the region."

President Jackson echoes that sentiment. "Our focus at HSU has to remain on students and their educational experience. The coming months will be hard, no question. Ultimately, we will come out of this a different university and, I predict, an even stronger one. Our vice presidents are addressing possible options internally and more information will be available in the next few weeks. Current efforts related to enrollment will be important, as is creating new programs and finding new revenue. At the same time, we will lean into our strengths in areas like science, natural resources, the arts."

MRCH furloughs staff

Mad River Community Hospital

ARCATA – Due to the significant patient volume reduction resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, Mad River Community Hospital (MRCH) is enacting a furlough program throughout the organization to match current patient volumes.

Since the inception of Humboldt County's Shelter-in-Place order, MRCH has experienced between 40 to 70 percent decreases in its emergency department, medical surgical department, imaging, laboratory, outpatient clinics and administrative support services.

Pamela Floyd, chief compliance officer for MRCH, said, "We want the community to know we are not laying off any employees but instituting a temporary furlough. All of our employees are still part of the Mad River Hospital family and we appreciate everybody working together in this time of crisis."

Although the furlough period is indeterminate due to both the unpredictability of the length of the COVID-19 outbreak as well as the state mandated stay-at-home order and the public's perception that it may not be safe to use hospital services, our intention is to bring back impacted employees once prior patient volumes resume.

Mad River Community Hospital has a strong reputation of caring for its patients and its employees. Placing our employees on a full or partial furlough is not a decision we take lightly. But under the current conditions, it is an essential move to ensure our doors remain open to our community.

"Before, during and after, we're still going to care for each other and our community," said Doug Shaw, CEO, MRCH.

St. Joe testing COVID-19 treatments

St. Joseph Hospital

EUREKA – St. Joseph Hospital in Eureka is participating in two national clinical trials of anti-viral drug Remdesivir for the treatment of moderate and severe COVID-19.

St Joseph Hospital Eureka is the only hospital within St Joseph Health, Northern California to open as a site for these clinical trials. The hospital was chosen due to an established relationship with the principal investigator of the trial and was proactive in seeking accelerated approval for the trials in Humboldt.

"This is an important opportunity for future patients who present with COVID – 19 at St. Joseph Hospital and meet certain criteria, to have access to Remdesivir, a promising investigational drug," said Dr. Roberta Luskin-Hawk, chief executive, St. Joseph Health, Humboldt County.

Luskin-Hawk, an infectious disease physician with extensive clinical research experience including working with National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases Director Dr. Anthony Fauci during the AIDS epidemic, continued, "The main goal of the trial is to evaluate the effectiveness and safety of the medication. We are incredibly fortunate to have the local expertise in Humboldt to facilitate the trials. The undertaking has required a great deal of work and planning, and we are thrilled to be part of this important work."

St. Joseph Health Medical Group physician Dr. Igor Abolnik, a local infectious disease specialist will serve as the trial's principal investigator. Kate Cruz, area manager, pharmacy services at St. Joseph Hospital will be helping coordinate the clinical trial.

BLUE LAKE RANCHERIA
A Federally Recognized Tribal Government
428 CHARTIN RD. | PO BOX 428 | BLUE LAKE, CA 95525 [T] 707.668.5101 [F] 707.668.4272 www.bluelakerancheria-nsn.gov

The Blue Lake Rancheria values your business and is actively monitoring the coronavirus (COVID-19), taking the matter very seriously. From the direction of tribal government, the tribe is choosing to close the Blue Lake Casino, Alice's Restaurant, Sushi Blue, the Wave Lounge, and the Lily Pad Café on Wednesday, March 18th, starting at 2 a.m.

The Blue Lake Casino's doors will remain closed until the end of March, when the tribe will re-evaluate the situation. The tribe is choosing to act out of an abundance of caution and is honoring Governor Gavin Newsom's request as well as strictly following recommendations from the World Health Organization (WHO), the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the Humboldt County Department of Health and Human Services, and other trusted sources of information.

At this point, the Blue Lake Hotel will remain open. Before check-in, guests are being asked if they have been in close contact with a person with symptomatic laboratory-confirmed COVID-19. The information is then being reported to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.
If necessary, the tribe is prepared to close the hotel if the situation begins to look unsafe.

The Blue Lake Rancheria will keep Play Station 777 Gas Station and Convenience Store open for people to get fuel and supplies. If the coronavirus worsens, the tribe plans to limit access to the convenience store, and will ask customers to pay outside by credit card at the pump – all pumps will be routinely cleaned and sanitized.

The Blue Lake Rancheria's government offices and business enterprises are following recommendations from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) routinely cleaning and disinfecting frequently touched surfaces (e.g. workstations, countertops, and doorknobs), as well as requiring employees to practice regular handwashing and to stay home if sick. Hand sanitizer dispensers have been placed throughout the property in public spaces and employee-only areas for people to readily use. To educate our employees and guests about COVID-19, we have posted CDC bulletins and posters about measures that we all need to take to prevent the spread of this virus.

At this time, we expect no disruption of tribal government programs. Programs such as home meal deliveries will continue as usual. We will notify stakeholders with as much advance notice as possible if any changes are expected.

The Blue Lake Rancheria is always looking ahead at issues that could impact the region and takes great pride in community preparedness, keeping our tribal members, valued guests and dedicated employees safe. The tribe's top priority right now is to reduce the risks of coronavirus and keep our community healthy. We are reviewing local, state, and federal recommendations daily and making necessary changes.

The Blue Lake Rancheria has declared a state of an emergency and is mobilizing appropriate resources.

Huffman | 'Going to have to plus up'

nesses, health care facilities and governments.

He said the CARES Act funding won't completely cover funding demand but more relief is on the way.

"I think you're going to see at least two more waves of legislation from congress, probably starting as soon as a week or two from now," he continued.

The first follow-up will be what Huffman described as a CARES Act II.

"Because what we've seen is that all of the individual assistance and the funding for health centers, hospitals, tribes, small businesses and non-profits is being immediately snatched up," he said. "The demand for this kind of help is beyond anything we could have anticipated."

The federal government intends to meet the demand. "We're going to have to plus up all of those things and look at ways the first wave might have missed some things," said Huffman.

He told supervisors, "To the extent that you are finding any parts of our community that aren't getting help that they need through these existing programs and the CARES Act, let me know and I'll try to make sure that CARES Act II fills in those gaps."

The current spending bill is addressing a flood of unemployment claims absorbed by the state's Employment Development Department (EDD). "I have heard of people having problems getting through to EDD," said Huffman. "They're overwhelmed right now, the number of claims that have been made just dwarfs anything we've ever seen in our history."

Huffman said he's heard accounts of "long waits" and the EDD's website sometimes being "bogged down."

But the EDD isn't under his purview and Huffman said "anybody who's trying to get in the que for unemployment still needs to go through the state and the EDD."

Huffman's advice for those having trouble applying is to contact the offices of Assemblymember Jim Wood and Senator Mike McGuire.

"They're going to have direct liaisons, as state legislators, with EDD and they might be able to move things along a little faster," he said. "A huge amount of federal money has been put on the table but it's all being pushed down through the states and through EDD."

Huffman added that the CARES Act expanded unemployment insurance eligibility to self-employed workers such as independent contractors, consultants and so-called gig workers.

After emergency relief is covered, additional federal spending will emerge during an economic recovery phase. Huffman said that infrastructure development and upgrades will be "a huge part of that."

It will include spending for green energy, broadband access, national parks, tribes and fishing industry infrastructure, he continued.

Huffman said that per capita, Humboldt County "has a significant number of COVID cases but all indications are that you're doing a fantastic job."

As of April 8, there were 50 confirmed cases of COVID-19 in Humboldt but only one new case was logged in the two days previous to that and as of April 10, the total number remained at 50.

Also at the meeting, supervisors discussed how waivers of late fees on property taxes should be administrated. The discussion focused on whether or not documentation of COVID-19 impacts should be required.

Supervisors left it up to the treasurer-tax collector, who had previously said that documentation would be required.

But there was discussion on whether a simple declaration that the stated impacts are true "under penalty of perjury" should be all that's requested.

On April 10 – the deadline for property tax payments – the county issued a press release announcing that waiver requests should be made through an "Affidavit for Penalty Exemption Due to COVID-19" form.

The form includes the declaration of truth statement and doesn't require documentation.

CR nursing students

College of the Redwoods will start sending nursing students back to local hospitals and community agencies for their clinical rotations after the Department of Consumer Affairs announced on April 3 that the California Board of Registered Nursing would lower direct patient care contact hour requirements for nursing student clinicals from 75 percent to 50 percent.

"Even with the reduced requirements, more than half of CR's Nursing students would not have made the 50 percent threshold if we didn't resume our direct patient care clinicals" said Roberta Farrar, director of CR's Nursing program.

As the reality of the COVID-19 pandemic unfolded in the community, the program was put on hold because of concern for the wellbeing of students, patients and hospital staff, as well as logistical obstacles that came up as the hospitals began to prepare for an influx of COVID-19 patients.

"It was helpful to pull back and see what would happen, both at the hospitals and with the Nursing Board," said Farrar.

As of now, students will work in two units at St. Joseph's Hospital, with no more than five or six students on each shift. To allow for the smaller groups, shifts have been extended from ten to 12 hours and now include Saturdays and Sundays.

"We are focusing on our 4th semester students, in order to get them to graduate and out into the workforce" said Farrar, adding that it is totally voluntary, and only students who want to go into the hospital or community setting are going. "We feel confident that the hours needed to graduate will be completed by May 5."

The Redwood Acres Fair Board announced the cancellation of the Redwood Acres Fair which was scheduled for late June. Other activities at the fairgrounds including roller derby and the Humboldt Outlaw Karts have also had to cancel scheduled events.

Property taxes

WIPES CLOG PIPES
What can I do?

A clump of wipes like this was cleared from the sewer in your neighborhood!
Unfortunately, it's not a game. Clogged pipes can cause sewage overflows and costly damage to your property.
But you can help prevent them by disposing of wipes in the trash, not the toilet.

- 30% of the sewage overflows in our service area last year were caused by wipes like these.
- So-called "flushable" or "disposable" wipes can clog your sewer pipes and damage wastewater treatment equipment.
- Wipes do not disintegrate in water as quickly as toilet paper and can get caught on roots or debris in pipes, causing blockages and overflows.
- If wipes can clog our large sewer mains, they can definitely clog your home's much smaller sewer pipes, requiring you to pay a plumber to clear the blockage.
- No matter what a label says, the only items you should flush are human waste and toilet paper.

A couple of craptastic Coronvirus countermeasures

Mask the masses

I was extremely disappointed in our county when they posted their updated list of essential and nonessential businesses for Humboldt County on April 8, 2020. With the updated list, the county listed bookstores as non-essential but liquor stores, marijuana dispensaries and gun stores as essential. This is truly heartbreaking and I wonder about the message they are sending to our children. How can a liquor store be essential and a bookstore not?

Every community needs books especially in this time of sheltering in place. With libraries and schools closed, bookstores remained the last local access to books. Many of the bookstores that did remain open did so with safety precautions in place like curbside pick up. That is NOT happening with liquor stores. But still our county Health and Sheriff's departments chose to make bookstores non essential. Access to books is an essential service. Bookstores are still being used by teachers and students who are trying desperately to make distance schooling work.

As an educator for 20 years and having spent the last few years specializing in reading intervention, I know that lack of access to books is a key contributor to the never-ending cycle of educational disadvantage. I truly hope Humboldt County's health officer, Dr. Teresa Frankovich and Sheriff Honsal seriously reconsider their decision to list bookstores as non-essential so the people of this community have access to books.

Encampments are a very bad idea

❖ LETTERS

According to reports on local radio (KMUD) and the County Board of Supervisors' Feb. 6 meeting minutes, Supervisor Madrone advanced a motion to have the county establish homeless encampments on county properties.

This motion apparently followed a request by a group that calls themselves "Affordable Homeless Housing Alternatives" (AHHA).

The encampments would presumably include public parks such as Clam Beach and Hiller Park (as suggested by AHHA), as well as large (non-county) parking lots. Although this motion and its failure for lack of a second have not been posted in the CBOS minutes, they were reported by KMUD.

As apparent from the KMUD report, this is a VERY BAD IDEA! At best, it suggests an ignorance of how the COVID-19 virus spreads and the efforts and ordinances – Humboldt County and State of California – to mitigate its spread.

Moving people from small groupings into larger concentrations is not only illegal at this time, it runs absolutely counter to state and local efforts to create social distance.

Interestingly, it also assumes that, because they lack permanent shelter, people also lack a viable social structure. According to one speaker at the KMUD interview, the community has self-organized into small, stable groupings, much like families, who are creating social distance. Disruption of this structure to produce larger concentrations would not only ensure uncontrolled spread of the disease through larger community contact, it would also undermine the social structure essential to its mitigation and to the mental health of people involved.

Moving people from their current social structure and concentrating them in larger, unfamiliar groups, substituting a group of well-meaning outsiders for the community itself, is a poor choice, at best.

What is better is the action that county officials are currently doing – to provide sanitation, trash removal, tents and sleeping bags to these community units.

Please encourage Supervisor Madrone to abandon this VERY BAD IDEA. Thank you.

Doggos are digging home sheltering; Scotty's a compact, curious kisser

If there is one group in our community that is benefiting from shelter in place, it may be the dogs!

Many of us have noticed that we are seeing a lot of dogs being walked in our neighborhoods that we have never seen before.

There are plenty of cartoons circulating on social media about the dogs having to cut off the endless walking every day, though my personal favorite is the cartoon were dogs are asking why all the people have to wear muzzles now.

All kidding aside, this has turned out to be a good time for the dogs that we at Redwood Pals Rescue and the County Shelter are trying to help. Adoptions have been steady and it's nice to know that adopters will have the time to put into training and exercising their new friends.

The Flintstone puppies of a few columns back are doing just great in their new homes with families that are making a group project out of training them! The pups are a welcome diversion from Zoom classes and online meetings!

At the shelter, we are still working with fosters for the adoptable dogs. We have gained so much information from this program, ranging from how the dogs are with cats or chickens to whether they are couch potatoes or tri-athletes. So many people responded to the request for foster homes that we are still working our way through the offers and trying to find good matches for the different homes that have been offered.

One nice dog currently available at the shelter is little Scotty. Scotty is guesstimated to have Kelpie and Husky in his lineage, based on his size and markings.

He is a compact little 40 pounds and is about a year old. He has shown himself to be a quick learner, already mastering sit and off.

When shown a bed in the front office, he quickly settled in, demonstrating that he must have been someone's house dog at some point.

Scotty gives gentle kisses and likes to be petted. He is not terribly interested in toys but does love to sniff everything! Scent work is a fun dog activity that can be set up in your own backyard; Scotty would love that.

He has been friendly with other dogs and cats are an unknown due to no cats at the shelter right now. Scotty is neutered, microchipped and current on his vaccinations. He is available through the Humboldt County Animal Shelter.

All adoption activities are by appointment only at this time so if you'd like to meet Scotty or any of his shelter buddies, please call (707) 840-9132 Monday through Friday.

Adrift in a sea of technology

MCKINLEYVILLE SENIOR CENTER
Patti Stammer

I took a little break at home, doing nothing, trying not to whine, and reading.

While sheltering in place, I've heard from many seniors that they are wondering who they can contact to get on social media to talk with family. Zoom has been suggested, FaceTime, Instagram and Skype. I feel like a digital dingbat when they call and ask me how to connect.

For the last two years, the past executive director and our current ED of the McKinleyville Senior Center have written grant after grant to fund a few new computers; simple, nothing fancy, but from this decade, for the Senior Center and for instructors to teach us how to use them.

No one seemed to think this was important, and now it is essential. Many, perhaps most, of our senior population of McKineyville are not connected to communicate in ways we understand.

Just updating our cellphones, we hit a learning curve more difficult than we remember.

My writers' groups would like to use Zoom so we can continue to write our histories and share them with each other.

Problem is that no one knows anything about the program or how to use it. If one more person tells me "Just download it and log in to the conversation" you'll hear me screaming all over McKinleyville.

Seems like a crime to leave a vulnerable population adrift because we've had no place to go to learn how to keep current with computers that work and with teachers that aren't so young, they think we actually understand what they're talking about.

As a result, many of us are adrift in a sea of technology that we need, but don't really have the skills to use it without annoying our children.

My daughter has two teenagers, an 11 year old, her husband and in-laws that turn to her for help. She's has had to learn about all the online places that interest them to keep up and keep them safe.

We just call and ask for the "Tech Department" and either she or one of the kids tries to help.

It's great to have someone to call, but I really want to learn how to keep up without being a pain in the neck to my family.

Ironic, since I'm the one who taught all of them how to use their first computers and cell phones when I had information and teachers available to me... back with dinosaurs roamed the earth.

So, here we are in a global mess that is pumped into our heads every day and just trying to connect with our family, friends, Netflix and YouTube is creating more stress than it should.

We must prepare everyone, not just school kids and office workers, for life in a digital age that is only going forward.

Those of us who are no longer in the mainstream labor force still have knowledge to share, retirement to enjoy, and a need to connect.

I guess I am whining, but it feels more like bitching, that our community left out a vital demographic that should have been prepared and considered instead of playing catch up in an environment where fear and insecurity makes every task, every day more difficult.

Another irony, since we are the ones who are experienced. My grandmother had a sampler in her house: "Use it up. Wear it out. Make it do. Do without."

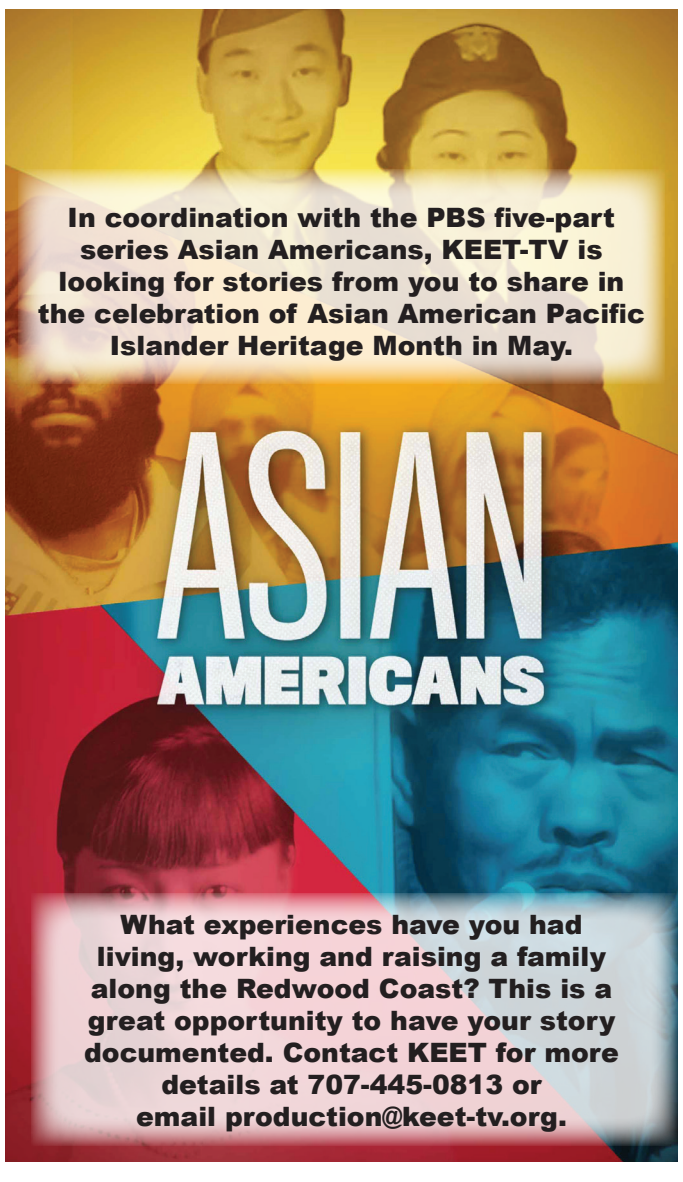

Now it lives with me. This made my parents crazy, as their generation tried hard to forget The Great Depression.

The skipping generations thing is back... They weren't washed up and neither are we. Take good care of yourselves, those you love, look in on them and listen to your teachers.

They'll appreciate it.

Just one last thing... remember your ancestors. Did they hoard toilet paper? No, they did not. But they did have some creative uses for newspaper.

EVERYTHING IS CANCELED Over the past year, the Playhouse has prepared for its 14th Annual Family Fun Series which traditionally happens in the Spring. The series would have kicked off with Teatro Milagro from Portland, Oregon at the beginning of April, and run through May with New York performer David Gonzolez and Canadian performer Jessica McMann. Each performer in the Family Fun Series visits Arcata for a week-long residency where they're scheduled to perform to hundreds of grade school students during the week, and for the public on the weekends. Between the three performers, the Playhouse had planned for a total of 18 performances. Due to school closures, all of these performances have been postponed to the late summer/fall of 2020. We will have more information available on the dates when they are confirmed. Rest assured, the Playhouse will be ready when schools reopen and students and the public can gather again for some family fun! This program is made possible thanks to the funding of many agencies, local businesses, and individuals that support the series' school and public performances. The Arcata Playhouse is very grateful to share that this series is funded by the California Arts Council, and they will continue their support for the 15th Annual Family Fun Series in 2021.

Getting to know each other from a distance

Sheltering in place has an up side. Telephone calls, texts, video chats and emails are are bringing family members and friends together all over the country and the world.

Neighbors on frequent walks are greeting each other from a friendly distance with words of encouragement and cheer.

"Stay well. We'll get through this together" is a frequent salutation.

Expressions of appreciation at markets, take-out or curbside restaurants, gasoline stations, banks and businesses still open are abundant.

Not in a hurry, normally very busy people are taking time to get to know each other.

My friend of 48 years, Kathleen Duncan, has given lively accounts of her career in cosmetology in Beverly Hills and Santa Monica over the years.

TRINIDAD TIDINGS
Patti Fleschner

Yesterday, I asked her to relate some of the stories while we were playing a game of "famous people we've met." Kathleen worked at the Beverly Hills Hotel in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

She met Fred Astaire. "Very quiet, shy and modest," she reminisced. Kathleen gave musical genius Nelson Riddle (Frank Sinatra's arranger) his first manicure.

Mr. Riddle came in for haircuts but had never allowed himself the luxury of taking care of his hands.

"Why don't you try it?" offered Kathleen, and he became a loyal patron. Steve Lawrence (remember Edie Gorme and Steve Lawrence duets?) was a big tipper. Kathleen's manicures cost $2.50. "Mr. Lawrence always gave me $5, an enormous tip in those days. He was always so nice and appreciative."

Hollywood writer Sydney Sheldon "wanted his manicures at home by the pool house," related Kathleen. "

His wife always came out to visit and they both were unassuming and kind."

Among Kathleen's most gracious patrons was Delta Airlines owner Bob Six, who was married to Audrey Meadows (some readers will remember the comedy The Honeymooners with Jackie Gleason and Audrey Meadows on 1950s television).

When Kathleen went to their Beverly Hills home to give Mr. Six his manicure, Audrey Meadows would open the front door, sometimes in curlers, and warmly greet Kathleen.

"The Sixes couldn't have been sweeter," said Kathleen.

When Kathleen worked in Little Santa Monica's Vassels salon later, she met three of Bing Crosby's sons, "all of them polite."

Southern California was an entertainment rich environment during the years Kathleen lived there before she moved to Trinidad in 1979.

She met Shirley Temple and Jane Withers (remember Little Rascals on the screen?) when they toured on a train. Kathleen loved to dance and went to ballrooms on evenings out.

She got to hear the Nat King Cole Trio, Louis Prima and Keeley Smith, xylophonist Lionel Hampton and her favorite performer of all, Frank Sinatra, whose biography she is reading while sheltering in place at home overlooking the Pacific.

Trinidad Massage & Day Spa turns 20

Katherine Perry, owner of Trinidad Massage and Day Spa, with two locations in Trinidad, had planned a gala 20th anniversary celebration last weekend.

We all know what happened: canceled due to coronavirus. Katherine's business along with so many others were thriving.

Most of Trinidad is coping with the melancholy shut down of commerce and cultural stimulation.

One thing loyal patrons of local businesses can do is to purchase gift certificates for future pleasures, when massages, facials, evenings out at restaurants, shopping, gallery strolling, museum exploring and guest-lodging will bring enthusiastic joy back to the scene.

Jewell Distillery now making hand sanitizer

Hey Blue Lake, sorry I have missed a couple of weeks. I think it's safe to say that our current situation has thrown me for a loop.

There are so many people we need to lift up at this time in our community, so I hope to do that while this crisis continues, and events are canceled.

Making hand sanitizer

First of all, huge shout out to Jewell Distillery! Barbara and Michael Jewell have switched their production a little and are now selling hand sanitizer!

Their hours have changed slightly to be able to accommodate this new endeavor – and so you can order your sanitizer and other distillery items by calling (707) 668-1810 Tuesday to Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Pay over the phone with your credit card, and then call again when you arrive for pick up! Support local businesses during this time as much as you can.

Abundance Upcycle Boutique

Speaking of local, Abundance Upcycle Boutique has been officially categorized as an essential business and is located in the heart of downtown Blue Lake.

Not only is there organic food available, but also toilet paper, soap and other items to support health and wellness in the community.

You can call to schedule a shopping appointment at (707) 639-4002 or walk over and shop with all current guidelines in mind. You can also purchase a gift certificate for future use, which will help this new business thrive during this difficult time.

Murphy's Market

Finally, I want to also give a shout out to a local Blue Lake area business, Murphy's Market in Glendale.

I especially love the fact that hand washing can take place before entering. Many of the essential items that aren't available in other stores have been available at Murphy's, or they can get it soon.

ESSENTIAL SERVICE Michael and Barbara Jewell of Jewell Distillery are now manufacturing hand sanitizer.

They also offer Instacart if you want to call in or use the app to have grocery delivery.

Nightly howl

Before I leave, I want to call the community's attention to the nightly howl at 8 p.m. This is apparently a national thing and is really for two reasons.

One is to show solidarity to all who are essential workers at this time. Many communities also clap at this time to show their appreciation for all medical workers, grocery workers, etc.

However, the other reason is simply to let out a cathartic howl during a time when you just need to get a little emotion out.

I did this the first time a week or so ago, and I can't tell you how awesome it was. Sorry neighbors, I got all the dogs going, but I hears so many people from all over Blue Lake howling, and I couldn't stop laughing, smiling, and my spirits were lifted exponentially.

So, if you get a chance, at 8 p.m., go out and howl for whatever reason you want to howl.

You may find it good for the soul and good for community solidarity!

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. But despite concerns about cabin fever triggering or exacerbating domestic disputes, those show no significant change, Ahearn said.

Ahearn said Arcata residents are by and large observing proper social distancing guidelines, although "that's not to say there weren't 'letter of the law' violations," he said. In those cases, APD officers are acting more as "ambassadors"

"We're continuing to do education and ask for voluntary compliance," Ahearn said. "There are not a lot of people outside. Public areas are empty, as they should be."

He noted the recent pause in new reported COVID-19 cases as preliminary proof that the measures are proving effective. "It's working," he said. "We're doing everything we can to halt transmission."

That includes measures to help the homeless population minimize exposure. Two city-owned parking lots have been designated as campsites where proper spacing can be observed – at Seventh and G streets and at the Intermodal Transit Facility.

There, the city is providing porta-potties and hand-washing stations, while Arcata House Partnership (AHP) is supplying wraparound services, including tents, sleeping bags, cots, food and more.

The Arcata Community Center has become an unofficial campsite for many, some of whom had previously camped in the wooded area between the complex and Samoa Boulevard. Under the extraordinary circumstances, the city isn't enforcing camping codes there.

"It's a Community Center for everybody in the community, including those that are unsheltered," Ahearn said.

STORYTIME Arcata Police personnel have been reading stories and posting them online for children to enjoy. Above, APD Business Manager Eileen Verbeck reads The Wide-Mouthed Frog by Keith Faulkner. The readings are a "grassroots effort" by officers, said Chief Brian Ahearn, to help families manage Coronavirus confinement. VIA FACEBOOK

Scammers not so heroic

Sunday, APD received a fraud report from the Valley Azteca Restaurant, located in the Valley West Shopping Center. The scam consisted of a fake online ordering webpage for the restaurant, through a website named "Order Hero."

The webpage contained accurate restaurant information including phone number, address and actual menu items. Customers accessed this false website through Google.com which appeared as "Aztecavalley.site."

Customers provided credit card information through the website at the time of ordering and when they arrived at the restaurant to pick up their food, they learned no such online ordering services existed.

APD cautions the community when ordering food and other products on-line and recommends verification of services through the business before placing an order, especially when using a new or unknown service provider.

Anyone with information is asked to contact APD at (707) 822-2424.
